

Weronika Dylag, Flagella of kindness - The world we live in seems cruel and unpredictable at times. Many times we feel powerless and drained. By creating this conviction that we may not have the power over what is happening outside - we have a power to control our inner world. By being kinder to ourselves and by spreading this kindness and passing it over to others we can regain the control over the world we perceive as negative. Flagella of kindness is a painting about spreading this kindness. It is acrylic made with a use of strong blows of air.

Marianne De Roo, Pola fourteen - I am an oil painter. In my work I focus on the botanical world, the human figure, portraits.

Part of my working process is to take polaroids of what I observe around me. This work is based on one of them. It expresses my innate attraction to settings, composition and colour. When I paint I seek my own version of a reality. I like to convey the message that discrepancy, emptiness, subtlety can bring balance. I think that the magnificence of our world is vast and suggestive, it is obvious and hidden at the same time.
